

I do not think this is a fair and equitable use of tax-payer and public shareholder supported airwaves. A publicly-held corporation should be responsible to the people and institutions that support it financially, not driven by the political whims of its executives who appear to be seeking some sort of personal political gain.